

MY QUEST FOR SUSTAINABLE USE OF THE PLANET

John Cairns, Jr.

CONTENTS

Quotes

Foreword

Dedication

Acknowledgments

- Chapter 1 The Beginning of a Lifelong Involvement with Pollution: A Major Threat to Sustainability
- Chapter 2 Coping with Rejected College Admission Applications: Getting into Swarthmore College
- Chapter 3 Encountering Disciplinary (i.e., Tribal) and Ideological Sanctions
- Chapter 4 The Perpetual Balancing Act: Economics, Technology, and Ecological Support Systems
- Chapter 5 The Joys of Being on a Team of Scientists
- Chapter 6 Working for a Woman Scientist in the Late 1940s
- Chapter 7 Going From Reactive to Predictive Pollution Assessment
- Chapter 8 The Field Station Era
- Chapter 9 Biological Monitoring Research
- Chapter 10 The Graduate Student Era: 1966-1997
- Chapter 11 The Undergraduate Research Era: 1961-1997
- Chapter 12 Embracing Transdisciplinarity
- Chapter 13 Leaving a Habitable Planet for Our Descendants: The Quest for Sustainability
- Chapter 14 My Guardian Spirits
- Chapter 15 Academic Awards: Are They Ever Too Late?
- Chapter 16 Writing
- Chapter 17 Happiness in an Unsustainable World
- Chapter 18 Facing Mortality in the Retirement Years
- Chapter 19 Research, Lectures, Performances, and Other Academic Communications
- Chapter 20 Leaving the Loop
- Chapter 21 Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration of the Founding of the Limnology Department
- Chapter 22 Coping with Belittlers
- Chapter 23 Retirement
- Chapter 24 Epilogue
- Chapter 25 Postponing the Quest for Sustainability: Survival First – Then Sustainability

